I always look for inspiration prior to writing the presidents’ letter, rather than wandering off aimlessly. Spending three months this past spring in the Czech Republic re-fueled my interest in Sokol, the Czech Republic, and the Slovak Republic, while creating new friendships and reacquainting with old friends. Now, as I wind down my second term as president, my goal will be to keep that enthusiasm and continue those connections. Americans are fortunate to live in a time of great freedom and wealth compared to those that emigrated from what my Czech grandfather called the “Old Country.” The number of United States citizens who currently travel abroad shows that there are many among us, who are privileged. According to the World Bank, in 2019 over 37 million people traveled to the Czech Republic, more than triple the number of Czech citizens, and Slovakia had over six million visitors that same year. I do hope that each and every one of you have the opportunity to return, or go to, the Czech and/or Slovak Republics to experience the culture and share your story with them.

We are all in different phases of life, some young, some old, others single, and some married. You might have children or grandchildren. Some are renting apartments and others own (or are buying) a home. Is there a common bond that binds us Sokols together? Especially the newer members, those that did not ‘grow up’ in Sokol. Who and what brought you to Sokol? Was Sokol a family tradition and you recently re-connected with your ‘roots’, or perhaps membership in another organization, such as the Czechoslovak Genealogical Society International or the Czech and Slovak Cultural Center? I am guessing there are multiple reasons, but I believe a thick thread is we all have interest in the Czech or Slovak heritage or culture. Personally, I believe no matter what stage of life you are at, it helps to know where you are from in order to learn who you are. My Czech grandfather married a German, as a child, I learned about both my German and Czech sides of “the family” from picture albums. As summer comes to a close and fall starts with new gym classes, dance practices, and festivals and dinners, our adult language courses are restarting. We are in need of Czech Language teacher(s) for this fall. We will be piloting a Czech language project with teachers from Palacký University for a small number of students, but are in need of an additional teacher. If you know of a qualified and interested Czech language instructor, please contact education@sokolmn.org.

An effort to digitize and share Sokol Minnesota archives began with the initial visit of Dr. Lukáš Peruška in August. We will share more as this work advances.

Our Czech & Slovak Festival will be a great event, so please mark your calendar for September 25.

Lastly, if any of you would be interested in listening in on our monthly Sokol Minnesota Board of Directors meetings via Zoom, please contact me at president@sokolmn.org. We have room on Zoom for up to 100 individuals. You can hear what we have been doing or are planning to do. Nazdar!
Sokol Minnesota Members and Volunteers Picnic was a Great Success
By Jean Draheim

More than 45 members, volunteers, their families, and guests gathered for Czech and Slovak Sokol Minnesota’s annual Members and Volunteers Picnic at the Lakewood Hills Pavilion in White Bear Lake on the warm, breezy Sunday afternoon of July 17.

President Dave Stepan brought a variety of tasty sausages, from Kramarczuk’s Deli in Minneapolis, as Sokol Minnesota’s contribution and they were expertly grilled by Chuck Draheim. Everyone brought something to share. As usually happens at our gatherings, we had a wonderful variety of foods: appetizers, salads, sides, and desserts. There was so much food, Chuck had to go home to get more tables!

Pat Slaber presented Blanka Brichta a Thank You card in appreciation of her many years as one of our Czech language instructors. Several of her former students were in attendance to help her celebrate.

We raised over a thousand dollars for Czech and Slovak Sokol Minnesota, but primarily we created an event that brought back many Sokol Minnesota supporters after COVID-related restrictions reduced the indoor dinners, dances, and Band Blasts at the Hall. Thank you all for your help and thank you for coming. Enjoy your good memories of an afternoon full of great music! Many thanks to those who came early to help set up or who stayed late to help clean up after the picnic ended. We are looking forward to a great year with our many members and volunteers. We hope to see everyone again soon at our upcoming events!

Sokol Minnesota Represented at International Festival of Burnsville

An International Symposium: What Would Comenius Say?

Comenius, or Jan Ámos Komenský, (1592-1670) has shaped thinking in various spheres in the Bohemian lands and beyond, including in education, philosophy, and international diplomacy. This year is the 430th anniversary of Comenius’ birth.

To honor the legacy of Comenius and highlight its relevance for the 21st century, the Czech & Slovak Cultural Center of Minnesota, the Consulate General of the Czech Republic in Chicago, the Office of the Honorary Consul for Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Czech and Slovak Sokol Minnesota, the University of Minnesota, and the University of St. Thomas are staging a two-day celebration on September 23-24, 2022. Most events will be at the University of Minnesota. The series of events will start with the exhibiting of an 18-panel display depicting the life and legacy of Comenius. Among the events scheduled are an international reception, a presentation on the Czech Republic’s presidency of the European Union, a panel of Fulbright scholars from various disciplines, a lecture on the legacy of Comenius, and a film about his life. This will be the first event of its kind in Minnesota. We hope to not only bring awareness about the actions and writing of Comenius in Europe in the 17th century, but to also emphasize the importance of his thinking in our daily lives.

We hope you will join us! More details to follow. Please contact Renáta Tichá at tich0018@umn.edu with any questions.

Sokol Singers Donate Sheet Music to National Czech and Slovak Museum and Library

The Czech and Slovak Sokol Minnesota Board of Directors online meeting was called to order on July 21 at 7 p.m. by President Dave Stepan.

Education Chair Pat Slaber noted that Dr. Lukáš Perutka from Palacky University will visit the Hall in August and will help us digitize the records. Perutka instructors will teach one class in the fall online. Materials include fluency and literacy and will be limited to 10 students, with Sokol Minnesota members given priority for registration. We are also seeking a replacement for Blanka Brichta, who submitted her resignation as Czech language class instructor.

Treasurer Don Haselbauer reported on account balances.

He enjoyed his time and hopes to attend the next level of instruction in 2023. COVID protocol will continue to be monitored in order to provide safety for fall classes.

Building and Properties Trustee Committee Chair Bob Kotek was unable to attend this month’s meeting; however, Dave Stepan reported that the committee met and projects pending include repaving of the parking lot and new doors on the Michigan Street side of the building. September 2022 Slovo 5
Former US Secretary of State Madeleine Albright died from cancer at the age of 84 on March 23 of this year, but continues to teach us through her seven books. The latest, Hell and Other Destinations: A 21st Century Memoir, came out in 2021 and is a fascinating exploration of what she chose to do during the two decades after she left the US State Department. I find her writing in this book to be informative, articulate, and surprisingly humorous. Her earlier memoirs were Madam Secretary (2003), which focused on her tenure as secretary of state, and Prague Winter (2012), which delved into her Czech heritage.

She was born in Prague in 1937, and she and her parents fled to London when the Nazis invaded. After Germany surrendered in 1945, they returned to Czechoslovakia and her father, Joseph Korbel, served as ambassador to Yugoslavia. Three years later, when communists took over, the family took refuge in the United States. Her Jewish family converted to Catholicism when she was five, and she and her siblings didn’t know about their Jewish past until much later. Three of her grandparents and other relatives died in concentration camps.

In Hell and Other Destinations, she writes that at the end of her time as secretary of state, a job she didn’t want to end, she had to find a new line of work. She was 63, well trained in diplomacy and international relations, had a wide network of friends, and was full of energy. A number of options were possible; she even received an invitation from Václav Havel to succeed him as president of the Czech Republic. She describes this book as a collection of stories. They vary from her wisdom about living a gratifying personal life, to particular international situations such as the Arab Spring and Merck’s testing and treatment of HIV with antivirals in Botswana, to exceptional relationships (she was especially close to Hilary Rodham Clinton, several presidents, and Václav Havel). She candidly discusses her divorce. In 1982, after 23 years of marriage, her husband informed her, “Our marriage is dead, and I am in love with someone else.” At first she felt nearly crushed, but eventually enjoyed the freedom. She was better prepared for the transition when upon the inauguration of the new president in January 2001, she started her life’s third act.

Albright’s life became extremely busy with consulting, teaching, giving commencement addresses and other talks, and spending time with her three daughters and grandchildren. At the end of every year, she did an evaluation of her life, asking if she’d done enough.

To start a consulting firm, she gathered state department colleagues and formed The Albright Group (TAG). It later merged with Sandy Berger’s firm to become the Albright Stonebridge Group (ASG). She also chaired the National Democratic Institute and many other groups.

Teaching at Georgetown University remained a priority for Albright. In her class on America’s national security toolbox, students learned what options the president has when dealing with an international crisis or trying to convince a foreign government to act in a certain way. Her lessons were consistent with her long-held belief in diplomacy. She was asked by the US Holocaust Museum to chair a task force on governments’ “responsibility to protect.” In the group’s final report, she stressed what she considered the wise course, “… to invest in diplomatic tools, including economic aid, the nonviolent mediation of disputes, and support for political pluralism and human rights. World leaders should engage in constant efforts to identify and ameliorate problems before they grow worse. That will not guarantee success in every instance, but it may well save thousands, even millions of lives.”

No matter what you think of her political perspectives and actions in office, Albright was an amazing woman. She was also self-effacing and self-critical, acknowledging her mistakes, such as her reply to an interview from journalist Lesley Stahl when she was US ambassador to the United Nations. Albright, too quickly and without clarity of her convictions, said that the price of economic sanctions on Iraq, which led to the deaths of many children, were worth it. The news show 60 Minutes received an Emmy and Albright was highly criticized. Albright later explained to reporter Amy Goodman, “The sanctions against Iraq were put on because Saddam Hussein invaded Kuwait. But there never were sanctions against food and medicine… and I was responsible for getting food in there and getting Saddam Hussein to pump oil.”

Although she’d seen tremendous conflict and tragedy throughout the world, Albright remained a highly optimistic person. I find her views on democracy inspiring and consoling, considering challenges in the United States in the last few years: “… democracy everywhere is not an accomplishment but a pursuit, an unending effort to make governments more responsive, effective, and fair. In this quest, the development of a democratic culture is essential. But what is a democratic culture? It’s a society where people honor each other’s dignity and rights not only because they will get in trouble with the law if they don’t, but because it feels natural and appropriate to do so.”

Flags from 30 countries, celebrating the native lands of those who now call Faribault home, were on parade at the International Festival in Faribault on July 9. Violet Chromy wore her kroje and M. L. Kucera carried the Czech flag. The Czech Heritage Club booth sold over 500 koláče, plus Czech caps, ornaments, flag pins, and cookbooks. At festivals, the Honorary Consul promotes Czech tourism and also events of our Minnesota Czech/Slovak organizations.

At the International Festival in Burnsville, July 16, Teresa Olson, Honorary Consul of Chile (left), and M.L. Kucera, Honorary Consul of the Czech Republic (right), stood with Blanka Brichta, who was the Festival’s Flag Ceremony Coordinator and Cultural Exhibit Chair. Czech and Slovak Sokol Minnesota members Doreen McKenney and Glynis Grostephan staffed a Czech/Slovak table featuring the art of bobbin lace inside the Ames Art Center. Framed pieces of contemporary bobbin lace by Dagmar Beckel-Machyckova hung on the gallery walls.

The July 25/August 1 issue of Time magazine featured “The World’s Greatest Places.” On the front cover is the Sky Bridge 721, located in Dolní Morava, Czech Republic, the world’s longest suspension footbridge, about three hours east of Prague on the Polish border. It is 721 meters/2,365 feet, nearly a half-mile long; hangs 95m/312’ above the valley below. It opened May 13, 2022. https://www.dolnimorava.cz/sky-bridge-721

Mark was eligible for Czech citizenship through his grandfather, Frank (František) Zimek, who was born in 1896 in the village of Kunovice, Moravia. Mark is the first to whom Kucera, as Honorary Czech Consul, had the privilege and honor to present a Czech passport, through his eligibility of having had a grandparent born in present-day Czech Republic. Frank emigrated to the United States at age 16 through Texas, settled in Saint Louis to start a family, and then lived many years in Berwyn outside of Chicago until the early 1960s.

This childhood photo shows Mark and his Grandfather Frank in 1963. Mark shared, "The citizenship journey was not easy, but I learned even more about my family and the result is extremely rewarding for me, as an added connection to my Czech family heritage of the past and the current family I'm close with today who live just outside Prague."
